Brattleboro Concerts Open New Season

A number of townspeople attended the concert presented by the Brattleboro Community Concerts Association at the Latchis Theatre in Brattleboro. This was the first in a series of concerts to be presented.

There will be three more concerts during this season, the artists being Todd Duncan, Negro baritone, Constance Keene, pianist, and Susan Reed, Ballad singer.

Members of the association may also attend seventeen concerts in communities in Vermont, New Hampshire and Massachusetts where the association has a recital.

The Northfield Teachers Club holds four student memberships and these will be used by pupils in our schools. Mrs. George Leonard is the association representative in Northfield. Anyone may call her for information about the concerts or artists.

Strange Story Told Of Old Coin Banks

Last Sunday, Nov. 14, Seth Kelly Parker, son of Mr. and Mrs. Willis K. Parker presented $45 to the Trinitarian Congregational Church for a memorial plaque to be placed in the proposed new church.

This plaque is to be in memory of Everett, Mary, Frank and Merritt Priest who died in a diphtheria epidemic 76 years ago. Their father James Edward Priest died also, leaving Sarah (King) Priest, the mother as sole survivor.

The sum of $5.14 had been saved in little banks by these children and later turned over to a niece, Harriet A. King of West Brattleboro, Vt. Because of the age of the coins, a Boston coin dealer exchanged them for the sum of $45.

Northfield Club Has Meeting in Sunderland

The Franklin County Northfield Club, headed by Mrs. Lester White, was entertained in Sunderland, with members of the Sunderland Club acting as hostesses at a desert bridge party, on Thursday, Nov. 18.

Chinese baskets and Northfield stationery were on sale at the party, with the proceeds going to the Northfield Alumni Association Fund.

Farmers Almanac Out

The Farmers Almanac for 1949 has already been issued and it has a very large distribution through Northfield and vicinity. They are offered at the counter at the Book store and other stores in town. The Almanac is not only weatherwise but contains a fund of information.

For Special Justice

Many friends in Northfield have joined in the petition to have Attorney Willard Selbert of Greenfield named to the position of Special Justice in the District Court to succeed Judge Timothy M. Hayes, who has been named as Judge of the Probate Court to succeed the late Justice Francis Nijma Thompson. Attorney Selbert has many clients in this town and serves several local organizations including the Rustic Ridge, Inc.

Random Notes About The Adoption Shipment

The three large cases now packed and ready to go to Camiers were donated by Robert L. Gingras, Mrs. Shirley Kehl and L. Percy Goodspeed. The items packed into them will be listed later and those contributed will be named.

The case donated by Bob Gingras will be making a return trip across the ocean — for it originally came from England. It will be well traveled by the time the good citizens of Camiers pry open the lid.

Charles White assisted the Press in getting the crates into shape for the ocean trip.

After getting the clothing into the crates the PRESS thought that at last the dining room would be ready for occupancy — but more clothing has been coming in every day. More crates will be made — and sent to Camiers.

After having packed the crates it was noticed that most of the clothing was intended for women and children. We know that they come first, but the men have to keep warm too.

You can't wear more than one suit at a time, Men! ! ! !

The publisher of the PRESS can be identified easily now. He has two suits. One he wears. One is in the cleaners. The rest are going to Camiers. Solves the cleaning problem.

20-45 Club Hears About the Gaspe

Mr. Burr Eldridge, publisher of the "Winchendon Courier", was the featured speaker at the "20-45 Club" meeting, Sunday evening, Nov. 13. Mr. Eldridge gave his audience a colorful picture of an automobile trip around the Gaspé Peninsula with a series of colored Kodachrome slides. The running commentary accompanying the pictures provided a vivid picture of the beautiful country to our north.

Thursday, December 9, 7:00 p. m. is the next 20-45 meeting date.

Serving the supper were: Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Quigley, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Barnes, Mr. and Mrs. Roy J. Fish, and Mr. and Mrs. Ralph L. Shindler.

Will Provide Cheer

The local Salvation Army Council and Fund Committee of which Ross L. Spencer is Chairman and William F. Hoehn, Treasurer will again provide Christmas cheer for the sick and afflicted, for the shut-ins, and to the patients of the several convalescent homes at the holiday season. A large order for oranges has been forwarded to Spurgeon Gage at Orlando, Florida and it is expected the shipment will arrive about December 15th. With the assistance of kind friends these delicious oranges will be distributed.

Evening Alliance Sews For Camiers

The Evening Alliance of the Unitarian church met at the home of Mrs. L. Percy Goodspeed last Thursday, November 11.

A short devotional service was led by the president, Mrs. Goodspeed, with music by Mrs. Virginia Haack.

Reports of the officers were read during the business meeting, and an appropriation was voted for the girl scout "little house" fund. Mrs. Marion Ware reported on the progress made in writing a new set of by-laws.

The major part of the evening was spent in mending and sewing of clothes to be shipped to Camiers by the PRESS. Three large cartons of clothes were repaired during the evening.

Refreshments were served by Mrs. Goodspeed and Miss Anna L. Fortier.

Northfield Post Gives Toys for Camiers

Members of the Northfield Post 9874 of the Veterans of Foreign Wars donated a substantial amount of clothing and a number of toys for the children of Camiers. The toys will be sent to the hospital in the town, and distributed to the sick children and those who are not able to get out of doors.

New Water Supply For Mountain Park

The East Northfield Water Company are taking over the water system which supplies the houses in Mountain Park section of Winchester road. The water service was built up by the late Mrs. Alice Woodbury and since her death operated by George W. Carr. The mains are through the roads of that portion of lands lying east of Winchester road which was developed for summer homes.

The reservoir was on a high point of land at the upper end of Carleton street and was supplied by springs in a sunken well near Myrtle street which was pumped by electric pumps.

Of late years the reservoir was supplied by private pipes. Last week the East Northfield Water Company began the laying of a pipe line from Winchester road up Myrtle street which will connect with the former system directly below the Coburn residence.

Beginning next week all homes will be supplied with the direct pressure of the East Northfield Water Company. Homes on Rustic Ridge, in Pine Grove section and in the Highlands are supplied with a feeder pipe from the mains from Birnam road. This is a real improvement in the line of service and will be appreciated by the summer residents.

Shipment to Camiers Delayed By Strike

Due to the enforced shipping strike now in effect the first large-scale shipment to Camiers has been postponed until the unions get their raise in pay.

The three large crates now packed contain more than 700 separate items of clothing and shoes. More than 20 women's coats are included with 60 pairs of assorted shoes, hundreds of dresses and a great deal of children's clothing.

These items will be shipped to the town for general distribution to the residents most in need. This shipment does not effect the

The Friendly Class Will Aid Camiers

The Friendly Class of the Congregational Church heard Miss Elizabeth Homet, a teacher at the Northfield School for Girls, tell of her experiences in France last year while serving as an exchange teacher at College Cevenol.

At the Monday, Nov. 15, meeting Miss Homet also showed motion and still pictures of France, giving a graphic picture of what life is like among the country people in that country.

The Friendly Class voted to send assistance to the Village of Camiers in the form of a package to a group of the children in the town.

Mrs. Eleanor Reed is program chairman for the year, serving for this meeting were Mrs. George Sheldon, Mrs. Fred Stone and Mrs. Florence Phelps.

individual adoptions of families and children.

Additional shipments will be made in the near future when the amount of clothing received warrants it.

As has been stated before, very few items of men's wearing apparel have been received. Despite the fact that women and children predominate in the village it is hoped that a substantial amount of men's clothing can be collected.

Clubs Aid Camiers

A number of organizations in Northfield including the Eastern Star, the Friendly Class, the Northfield Post 9874 of the VFW, the Unitarian Evening Alliance have made and are making substantial contributions, as organizations, to the adoption program.

The Community Club No. 4 of Northfield Farms is planning to take an active part in the adoption of Camiers.

Bonds of Friendship

Strong bonds of friendship are being built up between many of the school children of Northfield with those in Camiers. Almost all the letters sent to the French village have been answered. The PRESS still has a large list of names of children for "adoption". A few families are also available. Due to the fact that some of these families are rather large several families in Northfield have banded together in caring for one particular family in Camiers. A few organizations have taken families in charge.

Clicking Needles

In packing the three crates for Camiers the most important, and the most colorful items that went in were the little woolen "beanies". There were many far more expensive things, but with the exception of some little "booties", the smallest things were the beanies.

These woolen beanies were mentioned in last week's PRESS, but our imaginations were still working overtime in picturing what the commune of Camiers would look like when every child of Camiers was equipped with a rainbow-hued beanie.

If individuals — or groups — are looking for something to do for Camiers, perhaps a beanie, or beanies, would be a most simple and effective gift for any child of Camiers.

So — set your fingers and needles to work, and then to the tune of the clicking needles allow your imagination to wander and conjure up a vision of a village over-run with Northfield-made woolen "beanies".

Our Thanks

The fact that Northfield, as a community, has a heart has been known throughout the world. Pulse beats of this heart have been felt in Europe, China, India — wherever help has been needed.

The heart of Northfield has been reaffirmed in recent weeks by two connected episodes.

Locally the drive for funds to build a "little house" for the Girl Scouts overflew all expectations. The response for help was heard. Men and women volunteered their services — they gave their time, and donated equipment and materials for the proposed construction of the house.

The second instance has been the adoption of Camiers. The PRESS had every hope when they undertook the association with the little French town that it would become a community-wide program — to a large measure that hope has been fulfilled. Evidence of that can be seen in the ever-increasing number of letters, packages and bundles going to Camiers — and in the increasing amount of clothing, toys, books, shoes etc., received by the PRESS.

In giving unstintingly there is a great reward — and greater rewards lie ahead.

But, to give is not enough! To teach others how to give is even more important!

The strength and power of giving and helping is in our hands. If we can liberally sow that seed of service in the surrounding fields of our countryside — then the best of the heart of Northfield will be heard in it's fullest measure.

Our humble thanks for the adoption of Camiers — and for the "little house" — to Northfield.

Our hope — that the heart will grow stronger and louder!

'A Priceless Privilege'

A belated comment on the late presidential elections from the New York Herald-Tribune of Nov. 8.

"Dr. Bonnell described Governor Thomas E. Dewey's post-election pledge of loyalty to President Truman as the most dramatic happening of the election."

"It is a priceless privilege," he said, "to be citizens of a country where a defeated candidate, instead of organizing a revolution, appeals to the entire nation to unite behind the people's choice."

A New Postage Stamp

A new postage stamp, red in color of the three cent variety honors a woman who gave the idea of the "poppy sale" to help disabled veterans. The woman is Miss Melba Michael of Westfield who died in 1944 but whose effort has met with success. The first day issue was at the post office at Westfield and the first sheet was purchased by the YMCA Officials of that town and then presented to the Westfield post of the American Legion. Miss Michael was in the service of the Overseas YMCA during the first World War.

Journey to China

Miss Eleanor Gabel, known to many in Northfield, who left New York for Shanghai, China on Oct. 13, was last reported in Manila. The voyage of six weeks duration was on behalf of work for the China Inland Mission in China. On route to China, Miss Gabel stopped in Panama and Venezuela.

THE "SQUEEZE" BOX

(Letters should be limited to 400 words or less. All letters must be signed by the writer — the name will not be used if you so desire.)

To the People of Northfield:

On behalf of the Girl Scout Troop Committee I would like to express to you our thanks for your generous support of the Little House drive. We have been especially gratified by the many signs of real interest in the project — your remarks and questions, your gifts of money, your gifts of useful items for the house, and your offers to help with the building. We feel that we have the support of the entire community to an extent far greater than we had even dared hope.

During the winter months the committees of both men and women interested in collecting materials, making plans for the building and furnishings for the house will be meeting so that the house may be started as soon as the ground can be dug in the spring. With the extra margin of almost $300 we hope to be able to do this spring some of the things which we had expected to have to wait for — such things as insulating and furnishing in a more adequate way. We intend to keep the building simple but adequate, adding necessary items whenever possible. I would like to urge those of you who know of usable materials to contact Mr. Charles Repeta, chairman of Materials, or Mr. and Mrs. Robert Abbott, General Chairmen for the project.

Thank you all again,
Mrs. B. R. Andrews, Jr.
(Troop Committee Chairman)

Do You Know Massachusetts?
Compiled by the Massachusetts State Planning Board, 11 Beacon Street, Boston, Mass.

DO YOU KNOW THAT . . . It is estimated on the basis of reports to date that the 1948 total of new dwelling units started in Massachusetts will exceed 25,000, an increase of more than 25% over the 18,300 non-farm units reported by the Bureau of Labor Statistics for 1947 . . . Sales of Series E, F and G government savings bonds in Massachusetts during the first nine months of 1948 totaled $228,337,000, or 28.7% more than in the same period last year, a percentage gain greater than that of any other state except Conn. The new John Hancock building is the highest structure in Boston, the peak of its roof reaching 508 feet above mean sea level, on top of which is a 76-foot television mast. . . . Next highest points in the Boston skyline are the Custom House Tower 505 feet, State House Dome 413 feet, the vent on the Suffolk County Court House 386 feet, and the wind vane on the Federal Building 382 feet, as measured by the U. S. Coast and Geodetic Survey. . . . Retail sales as a whole in Boston during September totaled 3% more than a year ago, but sales in the meat markets were up 18% in women's ready-to-wear stores 16%, and of gasoline filling stations 13 per cent, as reported by U. S. Census Bureau. . . . Planning boards or special committees in the towns of Palmer, Shrewsbury, Stow, Georgetown, and Grafton are preparing protective zoning by-laws for submission to their respective town meetings.

COLONIAL CHRONICLES

A New Series
ENTITLED

"THE FORT AND THE RIVER"

The progress along the winding valley trails was slow. The trails were overgrown with weeds, and here and there completely covered by dense undergrowth. These trails had seen very few travelers since the last retreat from Squaheage. I wondered if I would travel this road in retreat — I was determined that I would not, but then my father had died trying to make the first settlement lasting.

I set to musing. Watching my horse's nodding head kept pulling my lids over my eyes. The sleepless night wanted to seek recompense now. Just as my head jerked up from a moneta rest Preserved Smith reined in a little, slowed his horse down, and the horses scrambled along the narrow trail, until we came into a long open meadow. Here the horses no longer rubbed flanks, and then it was that Preserved Smith spoke up, saying, "Sleepy, Benjie? I guess I should have brought my thything rod along from Hadley."

"No Preserved, I'll get over it," I answered, with a long yawn.

Preserved Smith was the thything man from Hadley. He was short and fat, no higher than a good sized pup. He'd given up his job in Hadley to strike out for new fields. He was full of fun, but when doing his job no tippler or Sabbath breaker was safe.

"You know, Benjamin," said Preserved, "I don't know why you had to leave Hadley and your schooling."

"I guess I was getting a little bigger than the rest, so mother thought I must be getting smarter as I was getting bigger," I said in all seriousness, for that was what mother had told me.

"Well, as long as you know what to do with a horse and gun you're smart enough, and judging from your size, if what your mother says is true, you must be about the smartest young man on horseback," with this Preserved chirped a little laugh.

"Well, book learning won't do much good up here in Squaheage, and I got a couple of things to make square for my father before I'm through," I felt that as if it were a pledge, and I had so told my mother many times, and she always seemed a little frightened when I said anything about it.

The men ahead had stopped, and Uncle Eb got down from his horse and walked over to a pile of blackened embers. After kicking them, and picking up a charred stick and found that they were cold he called to the rest of us, "Get down for a minute, stretch your bones." I got off a little stiffly, while Preserved dismounted as if he were rolling off a barrel.

As soon as I had wiped my brow

Preserved came over and asked, "What did you mean, Benjie, when you said you had a couple of things to make square for your father?" "I haven't told anybody about them — even my mother doesn't really know," and I knew that Preserved was pretty curious about what I was up to.

"Well son, I imagine it's pretty much your own business, but I wish you would remember, Benjie, that I've seen you since you was no higher than a vinegar jug. I've been a thything man for many years, I've handled tipplers, night walkers and such, and along with all that I've seen plenty of Indians — and all the fingers on my hands aren't big enough to count how many I've killed and how many of my friends, and your friend's Benjie, I've seen 'cut and scalped by those red shadows. If that's your trouble Benjamin you better tell me," with this Preserved let loose my arm for he had gripped me pretty tight while he was talking.

I thought that I should share what I had been thinking about — and who was better suited to hear what I had to say.

"I'll tell you Preserved, if you promise to keep it a secret and help me when I need it."

"Of course Benjamin, go on and tell me, but tell it quick we'll be on the way again."

"You remember," I began, "when my father was killed with Capt. Beers in the swamp fight, the Indians ambushed the whole party."

"Well I do remember Benjamin."

"Preserved, there's a couple of Indians that were leading all the rest when they murdered Capt. Beers and my father and the rest."

"That too I know, Benjamin. Some were caught and others were killed later," said Preserved and he began to adjust his stirrup.

"What two are you looking for?"

"I'm looking for Sagamore Sam and One-eyed John," I said rather breathlessly as if I were glad it was finally out of my mouth.

"You're going to do a lot of looking."

"I mean to look," I said, and with that Uncle Eb signaled for all of us to remount.

I swung into the saddle, and Preserved rolled up on to the saddle and the horse gave ground.

"I don't know if you have been careless in your listening, or you just haven't heard, but it was common news ten years ago."

"What was that Preserved?" I asked as he began to rein away.

"Sagamore Sam and One-eyed John are in Boston, and you won't have to run to catch them." As he said this he pulled ahead of me in the trail and said over his shoulder, "They were hung in Boston in '76."

Northfield High School is now adorned by a very attractive sign in gold leaf letters on a black-sanded background. The graduating class of 1948 left a sum of money for this purpose. It is hoped that this will be the beginning of the revival of a custom prevalent in this school a number of years ago and a custom in most high schools.

Members of the Senior class are busily engaged in rehearsing for their play "Kathy, the Great" to be presented at the Town Hall on Friday, December 3, at 8:00 p. m. Frances Scanlon of Grade seven had her tonsils removed at a Providence hospital on Monday. She is reported as making a rapid recovery.

Robert Whitney, a former member of the freshman class and now attending Greenfield Vocational School received a broken wrist last week in a fall from a step ladder. His many friends wish him a speedy recovery.

The magazine drive recently conducted by the students for the purpose of raising funds to purchase a combination AM-FM radio-phonograph resulted in a total sales of $462.30. This represented a reduction of $40 from the sales of last year. The students and faculty are indeed grateful to the many townspeople who supported this drive. High salesmen in this campaign were as follows:

Chester Gaida, $51.10; Barbara Fortier, $27.50; Mary Ann Repeta, $36.00; Russell Hutchins, $34.00; Deane Lanphear, $33.50.

These five will receive Certificates of Achievement for salesmanship ability. These plus most of the others will receive suitable awards for selling magazines. The school's commission on the sales was $140.39.

Louise Black, a member of the freshman class, received a dislocated elbow on Monday night when she was thrown from a horse.

The students of Northfield High School are now distributing the boxes of Christmas cards and gift wrappings which were ordered recently by the many townspeople. Any who did not buy and would like some should contact any high school student or call the high school. Proceeds will be used to purchase basketball uniforms for both boys and girls teams.

Town Topics

Postmaster Lawrence Quinlan reports a heavy flow of packages to Camiers, France, while letters are flowing to and from the little French village.

Tom Hurley polished his car last week.

F. Myron Dunnell has added a new truck to his oil business.

Mr. and Mrs. William Young are in charge of arrangements for the Community Club No. 4 dance on Nov. 19. The door prize will be a turkey.

The Community Club No. 4 voted at their meeting, Nov. 11, to contribute $10. to the Girl Scout "Little House" fund.

Joseph Colton, now up and around again, was a familiar figure on Main street, this week.

George N. Kidder has a fine new truck, and a new Plymouth car.

The Northfield Schools have purchased the former Levering property off Winchester road and after making repairs and improvements will use it for housing an employee.

Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Gray of Birnam road have purchased for investment the home of Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Barfitt at the corner of Myrtle street and Holley avenue.

Mr. and Mrs. Barfitt are moving to Greenfield for residence and will occupy a new house just completed for their occupancy.

A Lodge of Instruction for members of the Masonic fraternity will be held Tuesday evening, November 23, with Harmony Lodge at the Masonic Hall on Parker avenue. The address will be by J. Austin Daly, a member of Franklin Lodge of New York City and a resident of this town.

Mrs. Grace C. Cornell of Winchester road who recently closed her home after a summer's stay, will visit in California this winter. She is making the trip across the continent by bus in a leisurely manner in order to enjoy the various cities enroute.

The new house being built at the corner of Birnam road and North Lane by Leavis and Bolton for the Northfield Schools is nearing completion. The grading has been finished and the painting is under way. The residence adds much to the attractiveness of the neighborhood.

The Republican Town Committee will hold an important meeting about December first to survey the situation facing the town in the coming annual meeting and election the first week in February. Many offices will have to be filled and already there are a number of prospects who want to seek the nominations. The caucus will be held about the middle of December.

Preparations are under way in many of the homes in this town to fittingly observe the Thanksgiving holidays. From colleges will come many of our young people and the center of enjoyment will be the Thanksgiving day dinner. There will be several family gatherings and some special dances and parties.

The selectmen of the various towns in the county will hold their annual meeting on Thursday evening, December 2 at the Mansion House in Greenfield. After a dinner a business session will follow with the election of officers and an address. All of the Northfield selectmen expect to attend.

Mrs. Harry Crawford of Philadelphia who has been a guest at the home of Mrs. David Tomkins in Mountain Park for the past two months has returned to her home.

Mrs. Annette Esty, well known writer and author of the book "Proud House" died at Daytona Beach, Florida, at her winter home last week. She had frequently visited Northfield and her daughter, Miss Sigourney Esty is a member of the faculty of the Northfield School for Girls. Her husband, Dr. Thomas Esty is a former dean of Amherst College, and their summer residence was at Lake Spoford. Mrs. Esty's book, so well known, deals with the historical facts of the Connecticut Valley.

A large contingent of students from Smith College passed through Northfield last week end on their way to the camp at Rabbit Hollow. With students from other colleges they spent the week end at Winchester to aid in putting the camp in condition for next summers use. The effort is because of their interest in inter-racial groups. The camp conducted by Rev. James Robinson of the Church of the Master in Harlem, New York began in 1924.

Mr. and Mrs. Edward J. Guinee of Barnardston who recently bought the cottage of Miss Ethel Allen of Greenfield, located on Linden avenue in Mountain Park are leaving to spend the winter in Florida and upon their return in the spring will occupy the house for the summer. They are contemplating extensive improvements.

The high wind and storm of last week which damaged several brick chimneys on the summer homes produced a lot of work in repairs. Nearly all the chimneys so damaged are now being reconstructed by local men.

Friends visiting the home of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Schepp on Linden street are attracted by the splendid roadway which Mr. Schepp has constructed. Much rock was removed and the trail leveled after which the roadway received a coating of gravel. All brush was removed and Mrs. Schepp is beautifying the roadside with flowers, ferns and other plants. With the vistas of the hills and skylines and the glorious sunsets, the Schepp home is indeed most attractive and appealing.

Mr. and Mrs. Nardus Lessing who spent the summer here last season

Do You Know Massachusetts?

DO YOU KNOW THAT... Of the 107 cities and towns which have requested assistance under the State Housing Board's veterans program, sites providing for 7,961 moderate-rental homes have been approved in 63 communities at an estimated cost of $79,610,000. Formal contracts for financial assistance have been completed with eight of these municipalities for 1,778 dwellings of which 468 units already are under construction in Boston, Cambridge, Pittsfield, Springfield and Worcester. Massachusetts agriculture has set up two all-time records this year — its 575,000-barrel cranberry crop and a yield of 200 bushels of potatoes per acre, as reported by U. S. Department of Agriculture. Massachusetts Aeronautics Commission reports a total of 1,653 aircraft and 4,830 aviators registered in the Commonwealth. Air traffic, as measured by the control tower count, is running nearly 60 per cent larger at Bedford than at Logan Airport, notwithstanding about 6,000 commercial flights a month at Logan and practically none at Bedford. Harvard University has the oldest library in the United States and the largest with the exception of the Library of Congress. Massachusetts has more degree-granting educational institutions than any other state; more than half of these are in Metropolitan Boston. The adult education class in city planning sponsored by the Marlborough School Department is a program that may well be followed by other cities and towns.

VETERANS BULLETIN BOARD

Medical and Domiciliary Benefits
Hospitalization — Veterans Administration operates a network of 126 hospitals for the treatment of ill and disabled veterans.

An additional 12,500 beds — in civil, state and other federal hospitals — are being used by this agency on a contract or agreement basis. Clinics also are maintained in the 70 VA regional offices and in the other VA field offices, for pre-admission examinations and treatments.

World War II veterans, if discharged or separated under conditions other than dishonorable, are entitled to VA hospital treatment, under the following priority system:

First — emergency cases.
Second — Those suffering from injuries or diseases incurred in line of duty during wartime service.
Third — Those who state under oath that they are unable to pay hospital charges for treatment of non-service-connected disabilities or illnesses. These veterans, if not in the emergency category, must wait until a bed becomes available.

Emergency patients may be taken directly to the nearest VA hospital. If possible, the veteran, or someone acting for him or her, should communicate with VA by telephone or telegraph.

In all other cases, the veteran his nearest relative, guardian or representative, should fill in the proper form for hospital care. These forms are available at any VA office.

If the admission and travel incident thereto have prior VA approval, transportation may be provided at government expense for any case.

Domiciliary Care — Domiciliary care is available now at 12 VA homes, and three more are scheduled for opening early in 1949.

These are designed to provide a "home" for those veterans who have a chronic condition which incapacitates them from earning a living and who require medical attention. Requirements for admission for domiciliary care are essentially the same as for hospital treatment. Transportation at government expense as a rule is provided only for the initial admission and must have the prior approval of VA.

The veteran, or his nearest relative, guardian or representative, should obtain pre-admission approval from the nearest VA installation having facilities for domiciliary care.

Outpatient Medical Treatment — More generally known as "home-town treatment", outpatient medical care is available for veterans with service-connected disabilities.

Under this plan, eligible World

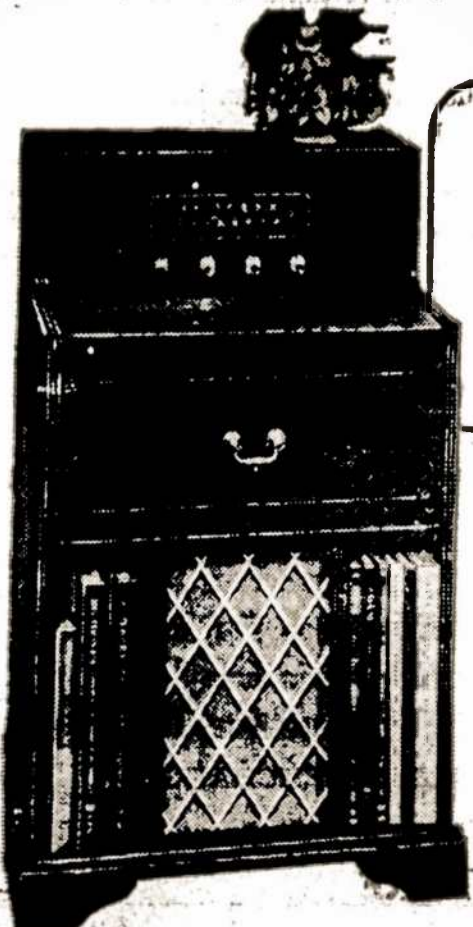

War II veterans may receive treatment at VA hospitals or clinics, or from approved private physicians. Each veteran's eligibility must be determined by VA before treatment of this type can be authorized. Necessary drugs may be obtained from "home-town" drugists at government expense by veterans who are authorized to report to private physicians for treatment.

Outpatient Dental Treatment — Veterans entitled to outpatient dental treatment may, upon VA approval, be furnished dental treatment by private dentists at government expense. Here, again, the condition must be determined by VA to have been incurred in, or made worse by, the veteran's wartime service before treatment can be authorized. Preliminary examinations may be made in a VA clinic or, if the clinic's dental facilities are not feasibly available, by a participating dentist. Treatment, if approved, may be completed in a VA clinic, or the veteran may be assigned to an approved private dentist.

Prosthetic Service — A veteran's eligibility for prosthetic appliances may be established if (1) he has a service-connected or service-aggravated disability requiring an appliance or (2) if an appliance is determined necessary as a part of hospital treatment or domiciliary care.

Complete information and necessary forms for procuring needed appliances, equipment and repairs are available at any VA office.

Pioneer Valley Now In Eleventh Year

This is the tenth birthday of the Pioneer Valley Association. In a decade the Valley's national advertising bureau has grown, from a small beginning, without members or money, to a busy organization with a $40,000 annual budget, and a membership of 2,000 businesses and individuals in the 70 cities and towns in the three counties. Bankers, farmers, retail stores and utilities, chambers of commerce, women's clubs, professors, and plumbers belong.

Set up originally to nationally sell the area's tourist advantages, the Association activities have expanded to include the promotion of farm products, and of a vast amount of real estate for summer homes. Lately studies have been undertaken looking to regional industrial products.

National advertising on the area's attractions, direct mail, motion pictures, news stories, and exhibits have gone into every U. S. state, and to many foreign countries. Thousands of people who never before heard of the region, have written the Association seeking vacation or realty information, and mail from distant states is now received at the headquarters in Northampton every day.

That the effort has succeeded is shown in annual reports. In 1947, 19 Valley hotels located in the three counties reported that tourists spent nearly three million dollars with them, and accounted for 46 per cent of their business that year.

The original organizing group, all volunteers, announced the area was losing a tremendous income from the great amount of tourist business travelling through and not stopping.

Newspaper clippings of ten years ago quote John W. Haigis of Greenfield as saying "We have everything to offer vacationists; but we have to advertise to get them." Mr. Haigis, who was the chairman of the first fund drive, and later served as the Association's president for five years, used to say that he became interested in this work when, from his office window, he saw vacationists travelling north on Route 5.

The Association's first meeting was held at the Hotel Northampton on November 17, 1938, but it was June before the 2500 mile area was organized and sold on the new idea. Lewis N. Wiggins called the meeting of leaders from the three counties, and described the possibilities of a regional organization. Yesterday Mr. Wiggins said: "It has developed into all we wanted it to be. I don't see how so much has been accomplished."

The Association's first name was the Western Massachusetts Visitors Association, and A. Gordon Moody of East Northfield was elected the first president. The same year the name Pioneer Valley Association was formally adopted.

All Valley newspapers immediately supported the project. The Springfield Newspapers assigned to the first board, Mrs. Ernestine Perry, who served as secretary. Others on the Board included Samuel U. Streeter, Franklin County Commissioner; Charles DeRose, President of the Northampton Chamber of Commerce; John H. Finn, Northampton; Charles W. Bray, Hampden County Commissioner; and the late Clarence E. Hodgkins, Hampshire County Commissioner, also Adrian Potter who

Rustic Ridge Association

The Rustic Ridge Association which held its annual meeting last August and elected its officers, has now through its directors completed all committee assignments and approved a program of work and improvements for next season.

Never was the outlook brighter for a successful summer as next year. The president of the association is Rev. Dr. Arthur L. Berger of Orford, N. Y., Rev. Dr. William H. Bollman of Lancaster, Pa., is vice president and Miss Ruth Pedley Card of Elmhurst, N. Y., is treasurer. William F. Hoehn is clerk of the corporation and Miss Gertrude Lauber of Elmhurst, N. Y., is assistant clerk.

George W. Carr is a member of the Board of directors which consists of all the officers and Rev. W. Gordon Poole of Glen Falls, N. Y. Every property owner is a member of the association which now has associate members in the other summer colonies.

Summer residents enjoy their stay in Northfield each summer and many of the properties are being much improved. They pay a goodly share of the town taxes but since they are not permanent residents receive only a small part of the town's privileges. The summer sojourners provide an industrial asset for this community and they should be given more consideration.

The summer colonies number about one hundred and fifty and their associations are a potential factor in the development of the community.

He was then Secretary of the Convention Bureau of the Springfield Chamber of Commerce. The late Alfred H. Hastings of Springfield was treasurer for three years.

Basketball SCOREBOARD

Work has almost been completed on the town hall for the coming basketball season.

Working on the project the other night were Willis Parker, George Leonard, and Robert Barnes.

The protective netting has been hooked up to protect windows and spectators. The backboards are ready to mount, and strong supports have been made ready.

Mats are on hand for the protection of players against the edges of the stage.

The Selectmen have not made a final announcement as to the scheduling of the hall for games.

The Northfield High School basketball schedule will be announced shortly.

The out-of-bounds lines, foul lines, "bucket" lines have been painted, and a new finish put on the floor.
